RAPID WORK ON NEW BUILDING

Excavation Work about Completed and Laying of Footings and Foundations Will Next be Taken Up. No Stone Foundations.

Work on the excavation for the new federal building has proceeded so rapidly that it will probably be entirely completed by the end of the week and things will then be ready for the construction of the "footings."

The trenches for these footings will be dug just as soon as the excavation is finished. The footing and foundation work will differ considerably from that of the ordinary building, or in fact any structure now in this town. Trenches averaging one foot in depth will be dug below the cellar line, at some places under the heavier supports reaching a depth of eighteen inches. The footings will be re-enforced with iron and on this sub-foundation the regular foundation walls will be placed.

No stone will be used in the foundations all of which will be constructed of bricks. The ordinary brick will be used and walls varying from 1 foot 10 inches to 3 feet 4 1/2 inches will support the upper walls.

In speaking of the new building this morning, Mr. Fantini, who has charge of the work for A. B. Stannard and Company, the contractors, said:

"The plans and specifications provide for a beautiful and handsome building and I hope that the construction will be just as fine. With the surroundings which the building will have it will stand as imposing as a monument."

The work done on the government structures erected at various places throughout the country is considerably different from the usual building operations seen every day and the work, as it progresses on the site at the corner of Baltimore and High streets, should be full of interest to the people of Gettysburg.

OFFERS REWARD

County Detective Charles H. Wilson has announced a reward of $25.00 for the apprehension of a man who ten days ago secured a horse and buggy from the stables of Warren and Weikert and has not been heard of up to this time.

The offender gave his name as Charles Moore and telephoned to the stables that he wanted a team for two days as he wished to canvass the county to sell farming machinery. The team was furnished and nothing has been heard of him since.

The case was given into Mr. Wilson's hands and he is making a vigorous effort to apprehend "Moore." He is described as about fifty years of age with a gray, stumpy mustache and hair. He is heavy set and when here wore a slouch hat. The horse was a bright bay mare with a white streak on its "face" and weighs 1050. The buggy was a narrow tread, red running gear with rubber tires.

Warren and Weikert had no reason to suspect the man as the local liverymen are called on almost every day to furnish teams for such purposes.

SNAKE IN HIS BED

Henry Kump, who has his home in a house on the Green Ridge road, above Cashtown, came home several nights ago and found a large copperhead in his bed and one lying on the window. He says this has been the best season for snakes that he has had up to the present time, he says he has killed one hundred and two snakes, consisting of black, garter, copperheads and rattlers.

Peck got too near a clump of trees. The machine was damaged and Peck fell into the water. The aviator's back was slightly injured but he flew again today.

George Mestach, a French aviator, flew over the dome of the State capitol at a distance of 450 feet. Mestach flew from an exhibition park three miles from the city, around the dome and over the Susquehanna River.

The meet was the first of a three day affair given by The Harrisburg Patriot which had as its special guests the newspapermen of Central Pennsylvania, entertaining them in the morning on an automobile ride, at noon at an elaborate dinner and later on aviation field.

MANY SELLING APPLE CROPS

Adams County Growers Disposing of their Crops of Fine Fruit now Maturing. Local Buyers among Purchasers.

The past few days have been busy ones in Adams County's prosperous apple belt and a number of the heavily laden orchards have been sold. The prices paid have ranged from $2.00 to $2.50 per barrel f. o. b., the latter price being paid only for very fine fruit, however. Very few growers sold as low as $2.00, the general price paid being $2.25.

Eli Garretson sold his crop to D. M. Minnick, of Chambersburg; Arthur Griest to F. A. Asper, of Aspers; Samuel Bream to D. M. Minnick; Clarence Hoffman to C. J. Tyson, of Flora Dale; George Oyler to D. M. Minnick; John Shull and Allen Deardoff to Phillips and Company, of Norfolk, Virginia; Sheely Brothers to Mr. Bahr, of New York. All of these sales were made by the barrel but the prices realized have not been given out, the growers keeping this matter more or less quiet. William Bream sold his orchard in bulk to Crawford Brothers, of Fayetteville.

Many of the large orchardists have not yet sold their fruit and it is likely that some of them will not close deals for their outputs for several days. Some of the crops from the orchards already purchased will likely be stored in the large new building which is being erected at Biglerville, while others may be shipped direct either to city markets or for city storage.

The announcement of the total output will be eagerly awaited as it is known that it will be almost twice as large as in any previous year.

ON LONG BICYCLE TOUR

Otis H. Gates, assistant solicitor in the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., reached Gettysburg on his bicycle Tuesday. From here he will go to York, Lancaster and Philadelphia. From there Mr. Gates will go to Elmira, N. Y., to visit relatives.

Mr. Gates is traveling on a bicycle the entire distance. Since he left Washington, D. C., five days ago he has traveled through the northern part of Virginia and has visited several points of interest in Maryland. He spent some time Sunday in Sharpsburg, where the 49th anniversary of the battle of Antietam, was being celebrated.

Mr. Gates says he took this route because he had heard so much of the beautiful Cumberland Valley. From Hagerstown he went to Waynesboro and from there to Gettysburg where he spent the day looking over the battlefield.

The twenty-seventh annual fair of the Hanover Agricultural society opened Tuesday with a large attendance. Every department is filled and the exhibition worth while.

The main building shows tradesmen's booths most artistically decorated with excellent displays, and is the most attractive of the exhibition houses. Great interest is centered in the poultry house, which is one of the most modern and up-to-date structures on any fair grounds, equipped with uniform coops, and has a concrete floor. There is sharp competition in every class and variety of fowls, between the leading fanciers of Pennsylvania and adjoining states. There are over 125 exhibitors, with thousands of birds. There is a fine exhibition of horses, and live stock of every description, while the display of fruit, vegetables and flowers is the finest for many years.

CLOSING OF PEN MAR

Sunday marked the closing of Pen Mar park so far as the Western Maryland Railroad is concerned, as their last daily excursion to that place was scheduled for that day.

Arrangements have been made with Prof. John Bohl, of the Pen Mar Orchestra, to furnish music every day this week, and concerts will be held daily, from 2.30 to 10 p. m. This was done in order that those wishing to dance could enjoy another week at Pen Mar.

Many of those who went to the mountain Sunday went in search of chestnuts but while there will be an abundance of them this year, it is a little too early to gather them, and, in consequence, but few were gotten.

Most all of the cottages and hotels at the park will remain open from October 1 to 15.

TO ORDER 5,000 STEEL CARS

The announcement by officials of the Western Maryland railroad that their company will, within the near future, ask for bids for the building of 5,000 new steel cars for use on the road after the completion of the Conneville branch, between that place and Cumberland, Md., has aroused considerable interest in railway circles and among car builders. An army of several thousand workmen is at work bringing the work to a finish and it is expected that before winter sets in the branch, destined to connect New York City and Pittsburgh by a direct route will have been completed.

REYBURN'S HANDS OFF PHILADELPHIA FIGHT

Reverses Himself in Republican Mayoralty Contest.

Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—An interesting development of the mayoralty contest in this city was an order issued to police and other city employees by Mayor Rebyurn, declaring the perfect neutrality of the administration in the fierce fight that is being waged between William S. Vare and George H. Earle, Jr., for the Republican mayoralty nomination, and notifying those interested that violations of the order will result in dismissal.

This complete reversal by Mayor Rebyurn of his former attitude came as a surprise to the public. Heretofore Mr. Vare has had the active support of Mayor Rebyurn, and there have been numerous discharges of heads of departments and subordinates for disobeying the mayor's order that everybody must turn in for Vare.

The mayor's order is hailed by the followers of Earle as a great victory, and they are predicting that Vare will withdraw.

COURT HOUSE GRAFT TRIAL

Excelsior and Burlap Fill Walls in Wilkes-Barre Building.

CONTRACTS ARE MISSING

Lawyers for the Accused Contractors Object Strongly to Reading of the Specifications.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 20.—Large holes in the walls and ceilings of the court rooms and the corridors of the newly completed $2,500,000 court house were to be seen by the jury members who are hearing testimony in the trial of Contractor Frank Carlucci and Architects Harry French and Frederick McCormick here, on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the county in building the court house.

They represented the places from which architectural experts, to be used by the commonwealth as witnesses, cut out sections in order to ascertain what material was used in the construction.

They expect to prove, when they are called, by these samples, which are now in sealed bags in the possession of the district attorney, that much cheaper materials than were specified and paid for were used in the construction of the big edifice.

In a corridor a beam was cut through. It was hollow, made of light wood covered with burlap and plastered. Thomas Clancy, the prosecutor, claims that this should have consisted of iron ribs twelve inches apart and covered with metal lathing.

In one place a piece was sawed off a plaster panel and the plaster was found backed with burlap and the hollow space behind stuffed with excelsior. The plaster secured in other places was sawed through easily.

Having obtained a number of the specimens of the work, District Attorney Valentine proceeded to have the contracts and specifications presented before the court and identified, and there was so much trouble about this that when the day was over the work had not been completed.

Deputy Controller James A. Dewey was first placed on the stand to procure the contract and plans for the work. He said the controller's office had the contracts but knew nothing of the plans. Then contract by contract, was read, each after a vigorous objection by attorneys for the defense, and much time was consumed in reading them.

Later, when the plans were demanded by the prosecution, what are known as the McCormick and French plans were produced. These are copies and the commonwealth demanded the originals. These could not be found readily, but after some delay the plans for the interior work were produced and search is still being made for the plans for the mosaic work.

It is expected that much time will be taken up in presenting and identifying the plans and then the commonwealth will proceed in the effort to prove the conspiracy.

WARMLY GREET TAFT

President Discusses Local Questions at Sault Ste Marie.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Sept. 20.—When Governor Charles Osborne, of Michigan, arose at the luncheon given President Taft and thanked the people of Sault Ste Marie for its applause, he said:

"I accept this kindly demonstration as an indication of your approval of my friendship for and my support of the great president of the United States."

Sault Ste Marie gave Mr. Taft a warm reception. First they took him for a trip around the city, and the school children welcomed him to town in a mass meeting on the lake front. Then Mr. Taft was taken to lunch with some hundred prominent citizens of the town.

In his address at the luncheon, he confined himself to the purely local subject of water power. This is the greatest local issue in the Soo. They attempted a great water works here some years ago, and most of the principal citizens of the town invested money in the project. It failed, and since then the Soo has been looking for water power development to make the city.

Mr. Taft told them that if they would send a committee down to Washington he would see that the war department would take the question up and attempt to reach a final settlement which would permit the use of the water of St. Mary's river, which is now going to waste, but which, if utilized, would be sufficient to boost Sault Ste Marie to a city of at least 100,000 people.

JUDGE GROSSCUP WILL QUIT BENCH

Noted Jurist Wishes Greater Freedom in Stirring Events.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—United States Circuit Judge Peter S. Grosscup announced that he would retire from the bench after the first week in October.

Judge Grosscup has served for nineteen years as a member of the federal judiciary in the Northern district of Illinois. He announced that he would send his resignation to President Taft shortly after the meeting of the United States court of appeals, Oct. 3.

A desire to enjoy more freedom as a citizen and to resume the practice of law are given as reasons for his decision.

"The reason for my resigning at all," he said, "is that I wish more freedom, not only as an individual, but as a citizen. The world politically is trying to catch up with the world's radically changed economic conditions. The 'formative' period is approaching. 'Next year's presidential election will, I believe, be the last one on the old lines. And the settlement for the future will come, not through the courts of law, but through the court of public opinion."

"I wish no office, but I wish greater freedom than the bench gives to do my part in this court of public opinion."

The recent act of congress, which would make the court presided over by Judge Grosscup solely a reviewing tribunal, may, his friends think, have hastened his decision to resign.

LIFE OF THE SUN.

Old Sol's Heat Will Warm the Earth For Millions of Years.

The reason why the sun retains its heat in spite of the quantity that it gives out is explained by the fact that heat is generated by the fall of particles toward its center. The diameter of the sun diminishes annually by 150 meters, a little more than the ten-millionth part of its total.

According to estimates made, 30,000 years will pass before the solar radius diminishes enough to produce an effect appreciable by the most delicate instruments, always supposing that the astronomical instruments of the future will be similar to the instruments of the present. By like calculations it is estimated that the sun will send heat to the earth between six millions and eight millions of years longer.

Radium, which emits heat spontaneously and without cessation, is present in the sun. One gram of radium frees enough heat in one hour to raise a grain of water from the temperature of ice to the temperature of boiling water. Hence the presence of this element assists in the preservation of the sun's heat. The spectroscopic reveals great quantities of helium in the sun, quantities great in proportion to the sun's other elements. The presence of helium is due to the disintegration of radium. Two grams of radium per ton of the sun's elements would be enough for the entire regeneration of all the heat lost by the sun.—Harper's Weekly.

LARNED NEVER TRAINS.

National Tennis Champion Eats and Exercises When He Feels Like It.

Practically all athletic champions follow a rigid routine of training. For the average champion it is essential that he do so in order to be in condition to meet challengers seeking his crown and the glory of attaining a title. Now and then there is an exception. One of the most striking is W. A. Larned, the seven time national tennis champion.

Larned follows no stipulated program of training. In an interview he told his system of getting in shape for a championship match. "I never diet," said the champion. "I have no specified hours of practice, but I am always in good physical condition."

"Of course to reach the top step of the tennis ladder it is necessary for a man to practice often. And in addition to frequent work on the courts he must be in excellent physical trim. A tennis player is under great strain

In a hard fought match. He covers many miles of ground in a contest. Then, too, practically every muscle in the body is called into play. The head must be clear and the eye alert.

"In my own case I have found out what is best for me. I never map out any special plan. If I feel like practicing I practice; if I don't feel so inclined I rest. That has been my routine of training, if you can call it training, since I have been playing tennis."

"I play tennis because I like the game," Larned says, and this is probably the reason why he is a champion. His heart has been in his work on the courts during the twenty-two years he has been a tennis player.

"There is one thing I wish corrected, and that is my age," continued Mr. Larned. "I'd like to see it stated correctly once. I'm not the grand old man of tennis that some people persist in thinking me. As a matter of fact, I'm far from the old man stage. I'm thirty-nine, and I've been playing tennis since I was about seventeen years old."

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date drug gist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort called Wyeth's Sassafras and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. People's Drug Store, Special Agent for Gettysburg.

SPAIN UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Drastic Steps Taken to Deal
With Strikers.

TROOPS FIGHT BILBAO MOB

Rumors of Revolutionary Plot Lead to Precautionary Measures—Mob Murders a Judge.

Madrid, Spain, Sept. 20.—King Alfonso signed a decree suspending the constitutional guarantees throughout Spain. This is equivalent to declaring the country under martial law.

This act, which had been under consideration for some days, was taken to give the government powers to deal sharply and promptly with the revolutionary agitation now fermenting in many parts of Spain, especially in the cities and industrial districts, where republican and revolutionary plans are being furthered under cover of working men's strikes.

Well known republican parliamentary leaders stand aside from the present movement, which is socialistic and destructive in character.

At Bilbao troops fired on a crowd that was endeavoring to free prisoners, including strike leaders, who were being taken through the streets. Twenty-six persons were wounded. The situation there is grave.

The General Union of Labor decided to call a general strike throughout Spain on a date to be fixed later.

The revolutionary movement seems to be centered at Valencia and Barcelona, but from the action of the government in proclaiming martial law throughout the country it would appear that the disturbances have become more widespread.

Strikes are general at Bilbao and Saragossa, and have been partially successful at Cadiz, Huelva, Seville and Gijon. It is expected that the workmen will go out at Barcelona, Coruna and Ferrol, and that the movement will become general in these cities.

The ministry of the interior states that the Barcelona police have discovered a revolutionary plot directed by Spanish and foreign anarchists and a certain political group whose methods provide for general strikes and violence against property.

Premier Canalejas announces that the government is in possession of all the details of the revolutionary plot which has been discovered at Barcelona and Valencia. It knows the names of all the persons concerned, as well as the names of those who provided funds, from what source they came and where and by whom received. The premier also announced that the government had information to the effect that plans were laid to assassinate General Weyler, captain general of Catalonia.

The most serious situation is at Valencia, where a general strike was declared. The city was at once placed under martial law, and though there was more or less rioting throughout the day, the authorities had affairs pretty well in hand until after dark, when the disturbers vented their fury in an attack upon the officials in the adjacent township of Cullera.

Artillery has been posted at strategic points, and other prompt steps have been taken to suppress the disorders. All telegraph wires have been cut except those to Madrid.

An official dispatch from Valencia said that a mob stormed the town hall in Cullera. They killed the judge and wounded the court officers who were engaged in the trial of the rioters. The custom house guards finally dispersed the mob.

SHOE MACHINERY CO. INDICTED AS TRUST

Charged With Criminally Violating Sherman Law.

Boston, Sept. 20.—Two indictments were returned by the federal grand jury against five officials and a large stockholder of the United Shoe Machinery company.

The indictments alleged conspiracy in restraint of trade under the Sherman act.

The officials indicted are Sidney W. Winslow, of Orleans, president; Edward P. Hurd, of Newton, vice president, assistant treasurer, director and member of the executive committee; George W. Brown, of Newton, vice president, member of the executive committee and director; William Barbour, of New York, vice president, member of the executive committee and director; and Elmer P. Howe, of Boston, counsel, member of the executive committee and director.

The sixth individual is James J. Storrow, the largest stockholder and formerly a member of the executive committee and director.

The penalty provided is a fine of $5000 or imprisonment for one year, or both. The six defendants did not appear, but probably will plead within the next ten days.

According to William S. Gregg, of the department of justice, the indictments charge that the six defendants have been working through the United Shoe Manufacturing company in a way to make them criminally liable under the Sherman act.

The second indictment alleges that the carrying on of the business under the merger of three old shoe machinery manufacturing companies was engaging in a combination in restraint of trade, having "a pernicious effect upon the public."

GIRLS FAKE BURGLARY

Break Window to Give Appearance of Reality After Theft.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 20.—Officer Green, of the state constabulary, found a bag containing $50 hidden in a bed of lilies in the Conestoga creek, just south of this city.

A sensational story, told by Lillian Benedict, aged fourteen years, whose grandfather, Hiram Rineer, keeps the tollgate on the New Danville turnpike, near where it was secreted, led to the finding of the money.

One night last week, during the absence of her grandparents, Miss Benedict fired a pistol, and when neighbors came, declared a thief had entered the tollhouse and stolen the bag of money.

Under examination the girl broke down and confessed that she and Myrtle Hammond, aged fifteen years, had "faked" the burglary, cutting a shutter and smashing a window to give it the appearance of reality.

She said that her lover, Robert Dussinger, aged twenty, had threatened to kill both girls if they did not take the money and conceal it in the lily bed. All three have been arrested. A misdemeanor charge has also been preferred against Dussinger.

HORSE FLESH IS SOLD FOR FOOD

Canned and Pickled and Shipped to Holland.

THE PLANT WAS FILTHY

New Jersey Concern Accused of Cutting Up Dead Horses and Diseased and Emaciated Animals For Export Trade.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 20.—That New Jersey has within its borders an establishment engaged in the business of canning and pickling horseflesh, shipped to Holland for food purposes, was officially brought to the attention of the state board of health at its meeting here.

The board referred the case to Attorney General Wilson, requesting him to take such action as the circumstances would warrant.

The complaint was presented by Dr. R. B. Fitz-Randolph, head of the pure food department of the state board, and was based upon evidence furnished by the bureau of chemistry, of the United States department of agriculture, which has had the horse pickling establishment under surveillance for several months. The federal authorities had succeeded in collecting evidence which indicated that the Schwarz Brothers company, of Kearney, had been carrying on an illicit business in horse flesh.

The government alleged that the most unsanitary conditions prevailed at the plant, and that carcasses of diseased and emaciated animals were packed for the export trade. According to the evidence obtained by secret service men, dead horses were cut up for food on the same floor occupied by animals which had glanders and other diseases communicable to mankind.

The investigation started by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the chemistry bureau, had to be practically abandoned by the government because of a leak through which Schwarz Brothers were warned that they were being watched. After this, it is alleged that no more shipments were made abroad, and the government being left without jurisdiction the case was turned over to the state authorities for prosecution under its laws.

The case worked up by the government was outlined generally in a letter from Acting Chief L. Dunlap, of the bureau of chemistry, which was submitted to the state board of health by Dr. Fitz-Randolph. In this letter Mr. Dunlap said:

"Confirming the bureau's telegram of Sept. 14, announcing that Inspector Wagner would confer with you in regard to an apparent violation of the state food laws, I beg to acquaint you herewith in more detail of the circumstances which indicate that Schwarz Brothers & Co., of Kearney, N. J., hold in their possession a consignment of horse meat intended for food purposes and adulterated within the meaning of section 3, paragraph 6, of the state law. The above firm is engaged in rendering fat and in exporting tallow. The tankage is sold to fertilizer establishments. The meat from which the fat is rendered is obtained by the purchase of dead animals and those live animals, which, because of disease, age or general debility, are unfit for further domestic service and can be purchased for a pittance.

"On or about June 10, 1911, the bureau was advised that the firm exported pickled horse meat to Holland, that this meat was entered at Rotterdam and was distributed throughout Holland for food purposes.

"This information was confirmed by inquiry of the inspectors, who immediately began an investigation to procure evidence necessary to institute a prosecution."

SUES POWDER TRUST

Didn't Know His Own House

By EDITH V. ROSS

There lived years ago at The Hague a pretty Dutch girl named Katrina Vedder. Katrina notwithstanding that the beauty of her form was obstructed by a dozen petticoats and her shapely feet were covered with wooden sabots was really a comely girl—so comely that when Ary Van Schoonhoven passed her house one day paddling on the canal he quite fell in love with her.

Not long after this Ary met the girl at a dance where the sound of the hammering in a carpenter's shop. The couple danced together. Ary whirled Katrina around like a top.

Whether so much whirling turned the young people's brains or whatever the cause, they fell violently in love. But in Holland young girls cannot marry without a dowry, and Katrina had no dowry. Old Van Schoonhoven, who sold cheeses, was well off and could have set the couple up very readily, but he would not. He told his son that if he chose to marry a dutiful girl he might do so, but they would get nothing from him.

The old man, though he was an alderman and much respected on account of his position, was given to tipping. There was a place near his house where he used to drink schnapps till late at night, then go home and live in a row of dwellings, all precisely alike and each built with its gable end to the street.

One night Ary determined to play a prank on his father. He had no object in doing so except fun, but before he got through there was a more important result than mere fun.

Van Schoonhoven when he came from the taproom was used to counting the houses till he came to the sixth, which was his own. Since they were all alike he had no other way of determining his own domicile. The door was one of those double ones set in the middle. One night when the cheese merchant went home full of schnapps he counted the houses, as usual, and when he reached the sixth endeavored to put his key in the lock and open the door. But he was a long time finding the keyhole, and when he did the key didn't fit it. Then he noticed that instead of his own double door the one he was trying to open was a single one. While he was standing stupidly trying to get through his Dutch noddle how he could have made a mistake in his count an upper window sash was raised and a head in a nightcap put out. Then a cracked voice called:

"Who is trying to break into my house?"

"I beg pardon," said the man below. "I thought this was my house."

"And who are you?"

"I'm Van Schoonhoven, the alderman."

"And a pretty alderman you are to be breaking the peace at night, providing around breaking into people's houses. I have a mind to call the watch and have you taken in."

"I pray don't do that. I've only mistaken this house for my own."

"Do you mean to tell me that you who have been born and lived ever since in the same house, don't know where you live?"

"I seem to have been mistaken."

"You mean that you have been so long at the taproom tonight and have drunk so many bottles of schnapps that you are fuddled?"

"Can't you direct me to my house?"

"Not I. Do you suppose that I am going to dress myself and go down and walk you, an alderman of this respectable city, to your own house?"

This loud talking aroused those living next door, and up went their sashes and out went their heads to learn who was disturbing the peace. It was Ary that had been talking to his father. He had taken the double door off the hinges and put on another one. Then, watching for his father when the old man came, he had lectured him in a feigned voice. Those living next door, being perfectly sober, had recognized Ary's voice and entered heartily into the joke.

"I know who you are," said a woman's voice next door. "You are Van Schoonhoven, with but one son, who wished to marry Katrina Vedder, a girl far too good for such a father-in-law. You who are an alderman should set an example to others instead of getting drunk and breaking the peace of the town at midnight."

Here an idea entered Ary's head.

"Yes; that is right. You are keeping two lovers apart, and tomorrow you will be paid for your meanness. This matter will be the talk of the town. But I tell you what I will do. I will give you a bed here till morning, and if you will then promise to mend your ways we will keep your secret."

This brought the old man around. His son threw him a key, with which he opened the door, and mounting the stairs, found himself in his own room. The next morning Ary went down early and changed the door. The woman who had done a part of the talking came in and told him that if he did not consent to his son's marriage and do well by the young couple she would tell the town he had come home so drunk that he didn't know his own house.

Van Schoonhoven made a virtue of necessity and gave the promise. But how his house came by a double door at night and had a single one in the morning, though he smoked many pipes over the problem, he could never determine.
